3. This table is not intended to provide an exhaustive list of all of the product features and capabilities. Although this is already a complex table, this is actually a fairly high level summary providing the main features.

Some product capabilities (columns) are also in marked legacy and are no longer available for sale, but are shown for completeness. In most cases, the capabilities of these legacy products have simply been absorbed into other academic products.